Washington C. H. Officially Made Ohio Softball Capital

This City's Efforts Are Receiving Wide Recognition

Washington C. H. has been proclaimed officially the "Softball Capital of Ohio" in a special proclamation by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

For the past two years local softball fans have been claiming that this city is the center of softball in Ohio, inasmuch as the state men's tournament has been held here for two years, then this year having been awarded the four state regional tournaments for both men and women.

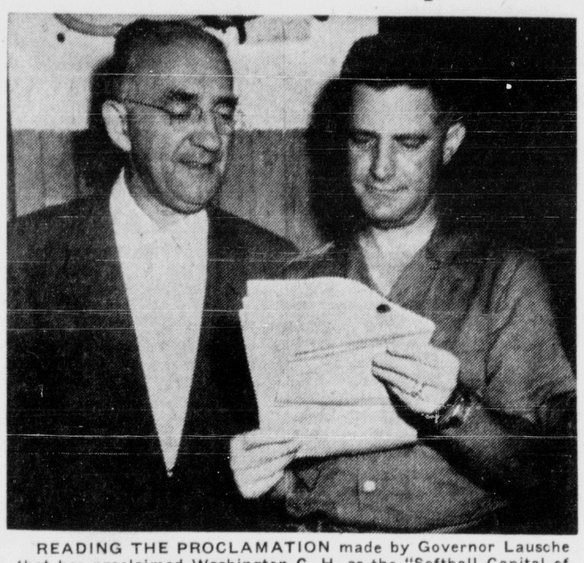

The governor's action now makes it official. In his proclamation, Gov. Lausche mentions the softball tournaments which have been held here, and the fact that Washington C. H. is the center of a large area in which there is great interest in softball. He concluded by commending the fans and citizens of the community for their interest in promoting these major softball tournaments.

* * *

GOV. LAUSCHE'S proclamation, received by Max Lawrence, county softball commissioner and tournament manager, was obtained through the efforts of the tournament's public relations representative. The proclamation on the governor's stationery was complete, even to the official gold seal and blue ribbon.

Interest in the softball tournaments here has been widespread throughout Ohio and the adjoining states, particularly during the four state girls regional tournament which closes tonight (Monday) Both of the nation's major news wire services requested coverage of the games, and special publicity

U. S. Aid For Iran Seen In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)— The new Iranian regime which ousted Premier Mossadegh last week appeared today to have excellent prospects of obtaining emergency financial aid from the U. S.

President Eisenhower will have to make the final decision on what would amount to a reversal in U. S. policy toward Iran, but officials noted that the situation in that troubled country has changed radically.

As a matter of fact, the whole range of U. S. relations with Iran is already under high-level consideration. If the Shah's new prime miniter, Fazollah Zahedi, urgently asks assistance, he seems very likely to get it.

The Shah told newsmen in Iran yesterday that his country must be helped in the next few days. He said the treasury is empty.

The United States regard Zahedi's administration as an opportunity for a new deal in Iran. It ousted Mossadegh, a man who was considered fanatically opposed to making any settlement with the British on the long oil dispute and who was risking Communist increase in power to consolidate his own hold on his country.

Zahedi is regarded as an ardent nationalist but also as a reasonable man. U. S. officials hope he will be able to stabilize his country and that eventually he will undertake some kind of reasonable settlement with the British.

They say he cannot move fast on the oil question, however, because popular passions are too high.

Iran has been without any revenue from its billion-dollar oil industry since the industry was nationalized two years ago. The government formerly got, directly and indirectly, more than $100 million a year from oil.

The United States presently has a $23 million economic and technical assistance (Point Four) program for Iran. It also has a relatively small military aid operation, probably running at about $20 million a year. In addition, there are around 500 American officials in the country who spend salary and expense money there. One informant estimated Iran's total current "take" from the United States at the rate of $50 million a year.

Columbus Tot Said Missing

COLUMBUS (AP) — Franklin and Muskingum County law officers today continued their search for the curly-haired, 3-year-old son of Mrs. Fay Scanlan, Columbus.

Mrs. Scanlan told sheriff's deputies last night a man jumped from his car outside her house and seized the baby while he was playing. Authorities said they believe a family quarrel might have caused the child's disappearance. They are checking relatives in Zanesville and the boy's father in Nashport, Muskingum County.

17 Accidental Deaths Recorded

COLUMBUS (AP)—Seventeen persons were killed in accidents in Ohio during last weekend.

Thirteen died as the result of traffic accidents; three drowned and one was electrocuted while fixing a television aerial.

Polio Claims Two

HILLSBORO (AP)—Mrs. Ruth McEwen, 37, died Saturday in Denver of polio, the same disease which took the life of her son Danny, 5, three days earlier. Mrs. McEwen was the wife of Dr. D. C. McEwen, Hillsboro chiropractor.

Poisoning Fatal

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—Mrs. Orville Lintz, 36, mother of two, died yesterday after being stricken with food poisoning Wednesday.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

This is about the time of year when the crows, as well as the starlings and blackbirds, congregate in great droves. In fact, the starlings and blackbirds started their assembly weeks ago, but not the crows.

Recently I saw many crows as far north as Ottawa, Canada, and I have also seen them throughout the United States, so that they are widely scatered.

It is estimated that there are upward of three billion crows in North America, and that each is scheduled to live 12 years unless eliminated by gun, poison or trap.

These birds cause extensive damage to some crops, young birds, eggs, etc., and they are found in numbers in Fayette County every month of the year.

It never gets too hot or too cold for these noisy, destructive birds.

Crows have been known to migrate up to 1,500 miles in a single year, so that they really shift about in surprisingly long distances.

I have a letter from Stuart Little, Suite 405, 1st East 43rd Street, New York City, asking for information regarding the age of crows in captivity. There may be a few such in this community and if there are any over 12 years old, he wants to know the age.

Escaped Con Admits Killing Kansas Priest

SOUTH BEND (AP) — A fugitive from the Indiana Reformatory admitted late yesterday he shot and killed a Roman Catholic priest in a river-bottom field near Kansas City last July 16.

Detective Sgt. Frank Bennett of Kansas City said William Jackson Townsend, 23, signed a statement admitting he shot the Rev. Robert A. Hodges.

Bennett quoted Townsend's statement as saying he shot the priest, who was dressed in nonclerical clothes when the priest made homosexual advances to him. The statement said Father Hodges picked up Townsend as he was hitchhiking through Kansas City, made advances to him as they drove, and later stopped the car in a secluded area.

Townsend told Bennett he shot the priest with a .38-caliber revolver he had borrowed after his escape June 5 from the Indiana Reformatory.

Bennett quoted Townsend as saying he did not realize the man he had shot was a churchman until he found the name "Rev. Robert A. Hodges" on the victim's driver license.

Townsend was arrested Saturday in Logansport, Ind., by FBI agents who said a woman acquaintance of Townsend's had told of seeing Father Hodges' identification papers in Townsend's possession.

BIS Escapee Swims River, Eludes Cops

CHEYLAN, W. Va. (AP)—One of two boys believed to have escaped from the boys industrial school near Lancaster, Ohio, yesterday eluded police, swam the Kanawha River and fled in a stolen truck.

West Virginia state police said they stopped the youth on suspicion of stealing a car in Covington, Va., but he broke away.

Covington police identified him as William Smith, a companion of Donald Stockman, who was arrested Saturday. Stockman told Covington authorities he and Smith fled the Lancaster institution.

Church Damaged

CLEVELAND (AP)—A fire which started in the organ loft burned the Hough Avenue Baptist Church yesterday. The church's congregation of about 1,000 is one of the Baptists' largest here. Firemen set the loss at $250,000.

Dispute Halts Plant Transfer

DETROIT (AP) — A jurisdictional dispute today halted the transfer of equipment from the General Motors burned-out Livonia transmission plant to Kaiser Motors' Willow Run factory.

Two thousand CIO United Automobile Workers placed picket lines around the main gate at the Willow Run plant, halting trucks bringing equipment from nearby Livonia.

Picket line spokesmen said GM was employing members of the AFL Teamsters Union to transfer the equipment. The UAW said this was work which idled employes could do under their contracts.

Soviet Signs Accord With East Germans

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has made sweeping concessions in a new pact with East Germany. The Kremlin agreed to exchange ambassadors with the Soviet occupation zone, end reparations after Jan. 1, cut occupation costs, provide additional economic aid and release some German war prisoners.

A joint communique announcing the pact was issued yesterday at the end of a four-day conference between top Russian leaders, including Premier Georgi Malenkov, and an East German delegation headed by Premier Otto Grotewohl.

Western observers in Germany viewed the agreement as an effort to prop up the wobbly Grotewohl regime. Its prestige has been at a low ebb since the June 17 hunger riots in the East zone.

These observers also considered the pact an obvious Russian attempt to undermine the pro-Western government of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, now locked in a life-and-death election campaign against the Socialists in preparation for the Sept. 6 parliamentary elections.

The announcement of the new pact closely followed a personal attack on Adenauer by Malenkov. The Kremlin chief declared in a radio broadcast the West German Chancellor, who has favored German rearmament and close ties with the West, was leading his country down the road to war.

Malenkov's speech and the communique also renewed Soviet demands for a provisional all-German government to prepare for elections and eventual German unity.

FHA Liberalizing Mortgage Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration has announced liberalization of its insured mortgage plan to encourage builders to take older houses in trade for newer dwellings.

FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday said the broadened program will help builders finance repairs on older houses and refinance existing mortgages on them.

Under the new FHA ruling, a builder taking an old house as a trade-in on a new home may get an FHA insurance commitment covering 80 per cent of the first $7,000 of value plus 60 per cent of the balance up to a total mortgage of $10,400.

Don Grate Sets New Throw Mark

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Don Grate of Greenfield, Ohio, now the Chattanooga Lookout centerfielder, threw a baseball 443 feet, 3½ inches here yesterday to better his own world's distance record.

His previous record of 434 feet, 1-inch was officially recognized and the ball is in the Cooperstown, N. Y., Baseball Museum.

No U. S.-Soviet Atom Control Seen Until Kremlin Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revolutionary changes in the whole system of Soviet rule would be necessary before the Russian government could join with the United States in any atomic control program acceptable to Washington.

Diplomatic officials agreed today that Russian participation would be impossible without such revolutionary changes.

They also agreed that this is the fundamental reason why prospects for international atomic controls are extremely dim.

Russia's disclosure last week that it had succeeded in setting off a hydrogen explosion has brought a new round of demands and proposals for international action to lift the shadow of atomic war from the world's future.

This has been especially true at the United Nations, where all efforts at arms reduction and atomic controls have been paralyzed for years by East-West disagreement.

* * *

ON SATURDAY Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee released a letter from Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith replying to Wiley's inquiry about atomic prospects. Smith said frankly they were dim. He blamed Soviet refusal to compromise.

Officials said privately that the reasons Smith cited are to be found in the nature of the Soviet system and the minimum terms upon which the United States and presumably other Western powers would be willing to set up a disarmament and atomic control plan with the Soviet Union.

The essence of the problem, these informants said, is that the rule of the men in the Kremlin is based upon maximum isolation of the Soviet people from the outside world and rigid restriction of the movements of any foreigners permitted in Russia.

The idea, as seen here, is to prevent the intrusion of any facts or thoughts contrary to the government line.

In other words, Russia is a closed corporation behind an Iron Curtain, ruled over by a small group of men for whom secrecy is a shield of power.

Employes Urged To Name Commies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee has appealed to present and former government employes for help in learning "the identity of the Communists who are presumably still in government."

The appeal came from the Senate judiciary subcommittee on internal security, which during the past year has been hunting for Communist infiltration of government agencies extending back 20 years. Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) heads the group.

In a 50-page report summarizing what it called "interlocking subversion in government departments," the subcommittee said:

"The Soviet international organization has carried on a successful and important penetration of the United States government, and this penetration has not been fully exposed."

The report said four or more Soviet espionage rings among government employes ha e been described by ex-Reds and "that only two of these have been exposed."

"THERE IS a mass of evidence and information on the hidden Communist conspiracy in government which is still inaccessible to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and to this subcommittee because persons who know the facts of this conspiracy are not cooperating with the security authorities of the country.

"Many government workers who have been loyal to the United States government did learn by their contact with conspirators some details of subversion.

"If these people will come forward, either to the Federal Bureau of Investigation or to the congressional committees, great strides will be made in protecting the security of this country."

The report, signed by all eight members of the subcommittee, said most of the evidence of Communist espionage in the government has come from such persons as Whittaker Chambers, Elizabeth Bentley, Louis Budenz and Nathaniel Weyl. All describe themselves as former Reds who broke with the party.

Scores of those who have been described as Reds have refused to answer questions before congressional investigators by invoking the constitutional privilege against self incriminating testimony.

It is known, the report said, that many of the latter falsified anti-Communist oaths required of government workers, but most cannot be prosecuted because of a three-year time limit on such prosecutions.

Commies Free 150 More GIs

Recently Captured Men Dominate Group

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Korean prisoner exchange approached the end of its third week last night as 150 Americans, most of them captured late in the war, returned from Red captivity.

The Communists said they would return 136 more tonight, which would push the total number of freed Americans over the 2,000 mark. The Reds originally said they held 3,313 Americans.

Several repatriates spoke lightly and jokingly of their shorter experiences as captives in contrast to the grim tales told by other POWs who suffered under Red hands for two and three years.

The Reds also returned 300 South Koreans. The U. N. Command released 2,400 North Korean soldiers and 259 North Korean civilians.

"Operation Big Switch" is almost two thirds complete, providing the current rate of exchange is maintained.

* * *

ALSO PROMISED for release today are 8 Canadians, 3 Australians, 2 Dutch, 1 Greek and 250 South Koreans. The U. N. Command is expected to give back 2,400 North Koreans.

Although the Communists have stepped up their pace of exchange, they still are lagging in returning Americans. Only about 56 per cent of the listed American captives have been released.

The Reds have returned about 65 per cent—8,270—of the 12,763 Allied POWs they said they held.

The U. N. Command has returned 44,629—about 60 per cent—of the 74,000 Red prisoners it held.

The Reds still hold most of the Allied officers and noncommissioned officers they captured and apparently are keeping them until the last.

One young Iowa soldier returned with a story of comparatively mild treatment by the Chinese.

Cpl. Carl F. Trumbo of Woodburn, Iowa, said the Chinese who overran the 555th Field Artillery Battalion near Kumhwa last month gave the Americans cigarettes and candy and shook hands all around.

"They treated us like we wasn't even prisoners," Trumbo said. "I'd say we were treated a thousand times better than the old-timers."

Cincinnati Medic Battles Tax Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service contends Dr. Clifford J. Straehly of Cincinnati, owes $47,597 in back income taxes and penalties for 1946. Dr. Straehly has challenged the claim in an appeal filed in the U. S. Tax Court.

The physician said he does not owe anything for that year. Furthermore, he said, the revenue agents knew when they billed him that their method of figuring was "based on fiction."

In another case the government contends Dr. Straehly and his wife, Oriel, were short on their joint return, for 1949 and 1951. For these years the government claims a tax deficiency of $5,907.56 and penalties of $2,953.78.

3 Ohioans Among Latest Repatriates

MUNSAN (AP)—The official list of American prisoners of war returned in the 20th day of the Korean POW exchange included these Ohioans:

Sgt. Frank McNeely, father, John McNeely, Hanging Rock.

Cpl. James W. Miller, mother, Mrs. Jane W. Miller, Columbus.

Pvt. Ernest Seaborn, mother, Mrs. Mae Seaborn, Cleveland.

Mossadegh Transferred To Jail Cell

TEHRAN (AP)— Official sources announced today police have transferred ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh from the comfortable quarters of the Tehran Officers' Club to a jail cell.

Mossadegh, clad in pajamas, surrendered last week after a bloody coup by supporters of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi took over the government he had refused to relinquish.

The wily and weepy old nationalist leader was interned in the plush officers club to await trial possibly on charges of treason for refusing to obey the Shah's order a week ago to hand the premiership over to Fazollah Zahedi.

Following Mossadegh's initial success in balking the royal order to get out, the Shah and his queen flew to a brief exile.

The Iranian ruler returned after Zahedi last Wednesday led the royalist coup that finally led to Mossadegh's downfall.

Even with Mossadegh a prisoner, the new Zahedi government's troubles were not over.

Small, scattered pro-Mossadegh uprisings still were reported in outlying sections of the country. And the Shah told newsmen at a place garden party yesterday his nation's treasury "is very empty."

Ohioan Sees Reds Execute Yankee

INCHON, Korea (AP) — An Ohio soldier released from a Communist prison camp said today he saw a Chinese Red firing squad execute an American behind the frontlines.

Pfc. David A. Dawson, 25, of Cleveland, said the execution was in the spring of 1951, shortly after he was captured.

The Communists said the man they executed had taken a weapon away from a Chinese guard and killed him, Dawson related. He said there was no proof of the charge.

U. S. Lawyers File Appeal In Lattimore Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today asked the U. S. Court of Appeals to reinstate four perjury charges against Owen Lattimore which a federal judge threw out as violating constitutional rights.

The appeal papers said U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl "misconstrued the counts so as to create the new and spurious issues of free speech, conformity of ideas, imposition of orthodox views."

Judge Youngdahl, a former Republican governor of Minnesota, last May stripped down the indictment against the controversial Far Eastern specialist from seven to three counts.

Lattimore, a onetime State Department consultant, was indicted last December. The charges grew out of 12 days of stormy testimony before the Senate internal security subcommittee.

In appealing from Judge Youngdahl's ruling, government lawyers devoted most of their arguments to count No. 1, which alleged Lattimore swore falsely when he said he had never been a sympathizer or promoter of communism or Communist interests.

In throwing out this charge, Judge Youngdahl said the First Amendment "protects an individual in the expression of ideas though they are repugnant to the orthodox. We should not attempt to require a conformity in thought and beliefs that has no relevancy to a present danger to our security."

The government appeal argued that the first count "cannot include a First Amendment question because the defendant volunteered his statement. "Privilege, if any, under the First Amendment was thereby waived."

Mental Clinic Racing Bookie Setup Bared

CHICAGO (AP)—The bizarre story of a horse-race betting handbook operated in a mental institution by a physician, an inmate of several years, and the inmate's woman friend was told here today.

Dr. Otto Bettag, state welfare director, said the suicide of a nurse in the Chicago State Hospital Aug. 7 after she had lost heavily on bets placed with the bookie gave authorities their first tangible lead, although he said betting operations were believed to have extended over several years.

Mrs. Dorothy Hughes, 31, told of picking up bets of $30 a day when she called daily on Martin Wanzig, 42, who was committed to the hospital in September 1952. She telephoned the bets to an outside bookie and carried winnings back to Wanzig.

Authorities said Mrs. Hughes told them the betting operations were started by a staff physician, who later enlisted Wanzig because, he said, "the operation is too big for me to handle alone." Mrs. Hughes said she drew a commission on the bets she relayed.

Dr. Bettag announced the physician and three other hospital employes have been dismissed. He declined to identify them.

The investigation began after Mrs. Fredonia Jones, 47, was found hanged in her room in the hospital nurses home. State investigators said she mailed a letter earlier that day to her husband, a laundry operator, indicating she was taking her own life because she had lost several thousand dollars betting.

Tot Clings Safely To Door Of Truck

SNOWFLAKE, Ariz. (AP)—Elwood Peterson said a guardian angel must have been along on the 12-mile ride after he found his 17-month-old son clinging to the door handle of his pickup truck as he drove through here.

How Bobby Lynn Peterson managed to ride the running board for that distance and how he got on the car in the first place was still a mystery to Peterson.

Minister Due To Join U. S. In Opposition

Diplomats Say Rhee Threatened Boycott Of Entire Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—South Korea's fiery foreign minister, Y. T. Pyun, was reported ready to make a strong declaration opposing India's participation in the Korean peace conference.

Pyun inscribed his name on the speakers' list for the afternoon session of the General Assembly's 60-national Political Committee as that body resumed debate on the composition of the Korean parley.

The South Koreans have made no secret of their opposition to India as a member of the conference, but had taken no part in the debate here. President Syngman Rhee has been quoted by some diplomats as having threatened to boycott the conference if India is given a seat.

India, meanwhile, pushed a vigorous behind-the-scene campaign for inclusion. The Indian delegation this morning called the 16-nation Asian-Arab group into a huddle to try to line them up into a solid pro-Indian bloc.

AT LEAST THREE members of the bloc—Thailand, the Philippines and Pakistan—were reported uncertain. Another meeting of the group was scheduled for later in the day.

The United States continued to lead the opposition to India.

The New York Times says that India's position is based on the Korean armistice agreement, which calls for a political conference among representatives named by both sides. As India sees it, one side is the Communist Chinese and North Koreans and the other is the United Nations—not the United States or the sixteen United Nations members with troops in Korea.

United States spokesmen have not challenged the right of the Assembly to name any countries to a slate. But the United States has insisted that the conference should be attended only by belligerents, at least as long as the problem of Korean unification is being discussed.

The United States delegation, while opposing India as a nonbelligerent, has agreed that the Soviet Union should be at the conference even though technically it was not a participant in the war. Washington has made it clear that it has agreed to Soviet representation at the talks only because it believed Moscow responsible for the war.

Diplomats from almost every political group here are saying that the United States' opposition to India is based not on the non-belligerency issue but on warnings from Rhee.

THE INDIANS have been telling other delegations that they did not seek the nomination to the conference—sponsored by four British Commonwealth countries—and did not feel called upon to withdraw. "If the Assembly wants us, we will go," is their attitude.

It should be clear this week whether the Assembly—or a big enough majority — wants India. The controversy is now before the Assembly's Political and Security Committee.

In committee, a majority vote of the sixty members is enough to approve a resolution. But all committee decisions must be approved by the Assembly itself, where important questions need a two-third vote.

If the committee gives India a two-thirds vote, she will probably agree to carry the fight to the Assembly. But if the committee vote falls short of two-thirds, some delegates believe the Indian delegation may decide not to go through the bitterness of another vote in the Assembly.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States delegate, said he did not believe India could command a two-thirds vote. The resolution sponsoring India will be supported by most of the Asian-African bloc, the Soviet group, most of the British Commonwealth members, the Scandinavian countries and some Western European nations.

Observers here expect India to get about thirty votes. To defeat that, under the Assembly's two-thirds rule, sixteen votes would be needed, and the United States is counting on the twenty-member Latin-American bloc to supply most of them.

Merchants Team Is Loser Sunday

Wilmington Team Gains A 7-1 Victory

A round-tripper by Dick Whited was the only run that the Washington C. H. Merchants baseball team scored when it was defeated by Wilmington, Sunday afternoon, by a score of 7 to 1. The game was played at Wilmington.

Whited got his circuit blow in the third frame. Six errors by the Merchants helped to pave the way for the Wilmington win.

Wilmington slapped the Merchants' pitcher, Bob Dawes, for nine hits. Fife paced the hit attack with two safeties in four trips to the plate. Wilmington marked up one run in each of the first, fifth and sixth innings and exploded for four tallies in the eighth frame.

Shaw led the Merchant batters at the plate getting two hits. In all, the Merchants collected a total of seven hits off the winning hurler, Perkins.

Perkins fanned 15 batters and walked three, while Dawes struck out nine and issued five free passes.

The Merchants only have one game left in the South Western Ohio League. It is another contest with Wilmington. Tom Smalley, the manager of the Merchants, said the game hasn't been scheduled yet because of the men's regional softball tournament coming up at Wilson Field.

North-South Turnpike Idea Hitting Political Roadblock

COLUMBUS (AP) — James Shocknessy's chickens may be coming home to roost.

If they do, money won't be available immediately to survey another turnpike route across the state between Cincinnati and Conneaut.

The Ohio Turnpike Commission that Shocknessy heads wants the state to advance $650,000 to survey a 300-mile southwest - northeast route for a 400-million-dollar toll road.

The state made a $600,000 "loan" to survey the 241-mile east-west route for the 326-million - dollar turnpike the commission now is building across Northern Ohio. The commission repaid the money from sale of revenue bonds.

Final approval for the "loan" must come from the five-man state controlling board that watches over use of state money. It takes four votes to release the money and two members oppose it.

They are Sen. Tom V. Moorehead (R-Muskingum), Senate Finance Committee chairman, and Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland), House Finance Committee chairman.

Both are policy - making members of the Republican-controlled 100th General Assembly. They reflect views of many rural-minded legislators and some from urban areas who criticized Shocknessy during the session that ended Aug 7.

Some of the more outspoken legislators claimed Shocknessy attempted to block revision of Ohio's code of laws because he objected to changes in statutes affecting the turnpike. Code revision was a major accomplishment of the legislative session.

Shocknessy denied the claims. But rankled legislators blocked commission-backed bills to ban bill boards on land near the turnpike but not crossed by the toll road. In acquiring land for a route, the commission imposed the ban on unused portions of parcels crossed by the turnpike.

Neither Moorehead nor McClure mentioned the friction between Shocknessy and the Legislature. But both made it clear that they opposed release of money from the highway improvement fund for a new turnpike survey at this time.

"I'd like to see how the present turnpike turns out first," McClure said.

Moorehead agreed and added: "This looks like a matter for the legislature to consider. Why did they wait until after the Legislature adjourned before asking for release of the money?"

Other members or their representatives on the controlling board favored the survey orignally called for by Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche. The governor is represented on the board by H. D. Defenbacher, state finance director.

Defenbacher said he would "go along with administration wishes." Lausche originally proposed a study of Cincinnati-Toledo route. But highway director S. O. Linzell said traffic volume appeared insufficient to make that route feasible.

He said the Cincinnati - Conneaut route would be.

Linzell is a member of the turnpike commission by virtue of his state position. He made the commission's request to the controlling board for release of survey funds. The board deferred action but members indicated the matter might come up again next week.

Other members of the board are Atty.-Gen. C. William O'Neill and State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

O'Neill said he favored the survey and would support the proposal to release funds.

Rhodes said in a prepared statement:

"In view of the fact that my predecessor was an obstructionist in connection with the present Ohio Turnpike, I want to say publicly that I will do everything possible to further the proposed second turnpike and help break the traffic bottlenecks in Ohio.

"While other members of the board of control should be given every opportunity to consider the request for funds to make a survey for a second turnpike, I want to assure the citizens of Ohio and the turnpike commission that I look upon turnpikes objectively and constructively and will cooperate in every way to help develop a long-range highway program in Ohio."

Rhodes' predecessor was Joseph T. Ferguson, a Democrat. Rhodes is a Republican. Ferguson precipitated a test of the Turnpike Act's constitutionality by challenging use of state funds to survey the original turnpike route. The Ohio Supreme Court upheld validity of the turnpike statutes.

The east-west Ohio turnpike will link the Pennsylvania Turnpike with a proposed toll super - road across Northern Indiana. A southwest-northeast turnpike would connect with an authorized extension of the New York Throughway across a northern arm of Pennsylvania near Erie, Pa.

The second Ohio turnpike would cross the super-highway now under construction somewhere south of Cleveland. Streaking diagonally across the state, it would pass near Akron, Wooster, Ashland, Mansfield, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, Middletown and Hamilton.

Ohio POW's First Act: Calls Girl

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One of the first things Sgt. James R. Tracy of Columbus, Ohio, did on his return from 23 months in Red captivity was telephone his girl friend. But, with a bashful grin, he refused to tell her name.

"Oh, everybody knows since you've been gone that it's Christina Dimitriatis" of Columbus, spoke up his happy mother, Mrs. Berdice Tracy, who had come from Ohio to meet her son's ship which brought 328 former POWs home.

The Red Cross said 212 of them telephoned loved ones all over the United States within two hours at Red Cross expense.

She Sent VIP Off On Errand

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"How about delivering this note for me?"

A secretary turned telephone operator here asked this question of the man at the next switchboard. Both were on duty because of the strike of CIO communication workers against the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

"Sure," replied the man, who was an assistant vice president although the girl didn't know it.

While he was on the errand someone told the secretary.

"Well," she said, "how was I to know that I drew a VIP?" The note was to her boyfriend on the next floor.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—By the end of this year about 200,000 Mexicans will have crossed the border legally to work on American farms for six weeks to six months. But probably twice that number or more will have slipped in illegally.

Atty. Gen. Brownell says that in the past year U. S. immigration inspectors nabbed about 389,000 illegal entrants and missed perhaps another 100,000.

He's searching for a way to stop this flow of "wetbacks" which former President Truman's Commission on Migratory Labor said in 1951 was an "invasion."

"Wetback" once meant a Mexican who came in illegally by swimming the Rio Grande. The meaning has been widened now to include any Mexican who enters illegally by swimming, walking across the border, or being carried over by boat or truck.

There are about 750 guards along the 1,600-mile border. Brownell is studying the question of the government's hiring more guards or perhaps suggesting the use of American armed forces as border guards.

After a tour of the border area a week ago he said that among other proposals he heard mentioned was this: passage by Congress of a law to penalize American farmers who hire wetbacks.

An official in the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Security, in nothing there is no penalty on them now, said there is a penalty for transporting wetbacks but there have been few prosecutions.

In the same agency it was said that if American farm owners "went legal"—that is, hired no Mexican workers except those brought in with U. S. government approval—the need for "legal" Medican workers would jump 25 to 50 per cent above the present figure of around 200,000.

The President's commission two years ago recommended that employment of wetbacks be made unlawful. This commission was caustic about the abuse it said some of the wetbacks have to endure:

"Those who capitalize on the legal disability of the wetbacks are numerous and their devices are many and numerous. . . If the wetback makes a deal to be guided or escorted across the Rio Grande or some section of the land border, everything he is able to pay is usually extracted in return for the service which may be no more than being guided around the fence or being given a boat ride across the Rio Grande."

The commission said a wetback who doesn't have the money to pay the smuggler for bringing him in is frequently sold from one "exploiter" to another.

It said the wetback, since he comes in illegally, can't very well complain to American officials about the treatment he gets here, including the pay on a farm, since that would disclose his illegal entry and he'd be shipped back.

Said the commission: "When the work is done, neither the farmer nor the community wants the wetback around. The number of apprehensions and deportations tends to rise very rapidly at the close of the seasonal-work period.

"This can be interpreted not alone to mean that the immigration officer suddenly goes about his work with renewed zeal and vigor but rather that at this time of year 'cooperation' in law enforcement by farm employers and townspeople rapidly undergoes considerable improvement."

Under law passed by Congress, this country has an agreement with the Mexican government to bring in workers legally for a period ranging from a minimum of six weeks to a maximum of six months.

A subdivision of the labor security bureau has recruiting stations in Mexico where those looking for the temporary American farm jobs are checked for physical condition, criminal record, if any, and subversive activities.

Farmers who want them have to pay the government $11 per man for their trasportation. At the border they are checked again and permitted to come in by the U. S. Immigration Service.

The farmer must guarantee them a minimum wage — the rate prevailing in the area — plus lodging. Under this arrangement, provided for by law, the American government has some control of the number of Mexicans coming in for farm work and where they go. It has no such control over the wetbacks who, given no wage guarantee, can depress wages in any area where they go by working for what they can get.

Retarded Children In Fayette County Offered Hopeful Opportunity

Some of the parents of retarded children in this county have secured information which offers encouragement to other parents with a similar problem

If as many as eight of these children can be found, with parents interested in cooperating, there is hope of setting up a class for special instruction. This class would be limited to children who are retarded to the degree that regular public school education is impossible. It's purpose would be to help these children learn to talk to understand simple instructions, attend to their personal needs or whatever such training is needed and possible.

The parents are expected to benefit from visiting together, exchanging suggestions and experiences The mothers who are making the suggestion have found that it is a great comfort to meet and talk with other folks who are faced with the same difficulties.

If there is enough interest to justify setting up a class, a representative of this branch of the department of Education will meet with the group and advise procedure, it is reported.

Once a class has been definitely established here, there is definite state assistance to be had, but the initiative lies with the parents in a local community. The program has been very successful in other counties, and many such classes are in progress.

At present there is no known way of determining how many retarded children there are in this community, or where they are to be found. However, the fact that one school census taker found five in one day, in one census area, indicates that there may be many in Fayette County.

All parents of these children, and other persons who have information on the subject, are urged to call Mrs. Stanley Graumlich, 4-3605.

Probing Indian Mounds Ended

Archaeologist Quits Fort Hill Digging

Raymond S. Baby and his assistants have completed a second investigation of earthworks and surroundings at Fort Hill in Highland County.

The party has been working quietly for some time, in an effort to obtain definite additional data on the type of men who built the big earthwork over 8,000 feet around Fort Hill.

Most of the probing has been done in the vicinity of the earthen circle, which is located 100 yards west of the old Mechlin homestead, at the south entrance to the park.

Baby is quoted as saving that the big circle which was included in the digging activities, originally enclosed a large ceremonial structure of the Hopewell Indians.

Two lines of postholes were found under the surface about 10 feet apart, and extending all of the way around the mound.

The outer row of postholes sloped out and the inner circle sloped toward the earthen circle.

Posts had been set in the ground two to three feet in depth, and some were held in place by stone slabs and round stones.

Only that part between the rows of posts apparently had been under roof, Baby is quoted as saying.

Bits of pottery, flint and flint artifacts were found in the covered portion of the enclosure, indicating that the moundbuilders had occupied that portion of the circle under roof.

It was also found that the restoration of the mound, made 60 years ago, was not correct, in that it does not outline the structure as it was originally built.

The group plans to complete the study of the structure next year, when the entire circular earthwork probably will be removed and properly restored.

Real Fish For The State Fair Kiddies

How would you like to know where there were 5,450 pounds of fish in a small enclosed area, be able to fish free for them with all equipment and bait furnished and take home all you can catch?

It is estimated that some 8,136 children under 18 years of age will do just that this year at the Ohio Division of Wildlife's free kiddies fishing program at the Ohio State Fair, August 28 to September 4, at Columbus.

In addition to the fishing pleasure, which they have had for the past several years, the youngsters this year will be given the advantage of educational program on how to fish by Ohio game protectors and a short instructional period on identification of Ohio's fishes prior to the fishing period.

Each youngster will be furnished pole, line, cork, hook, sinker, bait and a free stringer. All the fish they catch during the period may be kept. And Division officials at the scene will wrap the fish and keep them on ice without cost, until 5:30 P. M. of that day. Approximately 1,000 kiddies will be permitted to fish each day.

REDS CLAMP SECURITY MEASURES ON CHINA, FEARING SPREAD OF EAST EUROPE'S UNREST

By F. K. WU
Central Press Correspondent

HONG KONG—Fears that the anti-Soviet strikes and clashes in Eastern Europe may spread to China and upset the Communist apple cart have prompted the Peiping regime in clamping down rigid security measures over the entire country. The work is not so easy because of minor peasant revolts going on in various places in the country, according to reliable reports.

"In Pao An Hsien just north of this British Crown Colony, anti-Communist guerrilas have resumed activities in disarming citizen soldiers and looting public granaries, said a small time transport merchant arriving here from Nan Tou, a coastal town and county seat of Pao An. "Citizen soldiers often serve as guides to the guerillas over territory garrisoned by Communist regulars.

"In mountainous regions of neighboring Kwangsi province, peasants killed Red tax collectors and fled to the mountains to join up with the lurking partisans. Even provincial troops in North Kwangtung mutinied after murdering the commissars and scaled mountain fastness to link up with the guerrillas."

Guerrillas have fought with Communist regulars in different parts of the country, especially in Szechuan province, West China, according to the English language Freedom Front Fortnightly quoting the New China Daily News of Chungking, former wartime capital. The guerrillas inflicted heavy casualties on the Communist Youth Corps, an elite unit specially formed to put down armed opposition.

WHAT WORRIES the Peiping regime is the increasing hatred of Soviet Russia and things Russian in the minds of the masses. For the next five years, Communist China has pledged its resources as payment to Soviet Russia for the supply of MIG jet planes, tanks, howitzers, burp guns and other military weapons which were used in connection with the Korean war. A reliable source said that such heavy payment has impelled the Peiping regime to liquidate the war debt as soon as possible.

The goods Communist China has to send to the U.S.S.R. for the next five years are wolfram, uranium, iron ores, coal, tungoil, silk, soya bean, tea, eggs and other edibles. In other words China was not only supplying the manpower but paying for the weapons in the Korean war, while Soviet Russia was providing the jet fighter pilots, gunnery experts and staff officers.

A Chinese Communist party worker (left) harangues a peasant on dangers of joining or aiding the anti-Communist guerillas.

About 10,000 Russian soldiers are reported to have been on guard duty along key railroad points in Manchuria and North China in order to ensure rapid shipments of the Chinese exports to the U.S.S.R. free from sabotage and pillage by Chinese guerillas and professional looters.

The interference to the rail shipments is also due to the rising anti-Russian sentiment among the masses despite the usual high pressure propaganda glorifying Soviet Russia and things Russian.

The Chinese masses blame Russia for pushing China into the Korean war without the least benefits to the country, whereas the 70,000 Russian advisers and technicians are eating off the fat of the land.

RESPECT for the Soviet Union as propagated by the Peiping regime has a reverse effect, for Russian gingham loses color and Russian kerosene gives out a bad odor and smoke. Russian trucks break down far more often than those from Czechoslovakia and are decidedly inferior to American vehicles.

Strikes, riots and other discontents as flaring up in East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and other countries inside the Iron Curtain since June 17 may happen also in Communist China on the basis of fragmentary reports reaching here to indicate the general discontent of the people toward the Communist regime and dislike of Soviet Russia. Because of this anti-Russian hostility, pro-Russian propaganda has been toned down a little bit after the death of Premier Joseph Stalin.

THE GENERAL UNREST has infected college students, who had been the main props of the Communist regime. The People's Daily, official newspaper in Peiping, disclosed in its correspondence columns that college students in North China are bitterly complaining of the very poor food and housing, and heavy curriculum which lead to prevalence of malnutrition, tuberculosis, rapid deterioration in health and various other diseases.

University students had been ardent supporters of Communism and took part last year in the so-called agrarian reform, the anti-corruption racket, suppression of counter-reactionaries, etc. To gain their goodwill, the Communist authorities have given them a free college education including free rooms and board.

Church Rolls Gaining Rapidly

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Council of Churches says church membership in the United States is growing at the fastest rate in history and stood at a record 92,277,129 at the end of 1952.

The council adds that the 1952 gain was 3,604,124, a 4.1 per cent increase for the year. The annual gain during the previous 10 years was given as 2 per cent. The council said church membership growth was 2½ times as fast as the nation's over-all population growth in 1952.

The figures, gathered from 251 religious bodies of all faiths, are in the 1953 edition of the Yearbook of American Churches. They were released yesterday.

Nearly Two-Thirds Of World Starves

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost two thirds of the world's peoples are starving despite sufficient food production to feed everyone, says the American Geographical Society.

The society reported yesterday the findings from a study by its medical geographical department.

The National Geographic Society says today's international fleet of 19 whaling ships with 250 catcher boats takes more than twice the number of whales processed in the palmy days of whaling by 1,000 ships.

Salaries Boosted For Hospital Force

The board of trustees of the Greenfield Municipal Hospital has boosted salaries of all employes $10 per month.

J. A. Duncan, president of the board, said the boost would mean $3,000 additional yearly salary expense and bring the total payroll to about $50,000.

The increase will be shared by 24 persons, including employes of all classes.

Waterfowl Hunting Dates Are Decided By State Council

Ohio waterfowl hunters for the second consecutive year will have a 55-day season. The dates are from October 19 to December 12, inclusive.

The Ohio Wildlife Council acting rapidly in order to aid hunters who like to plan their hunting days early, approved the dates for the Ohio season shortly after receiving the approved hunting dates for the Mississippi Flyway by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

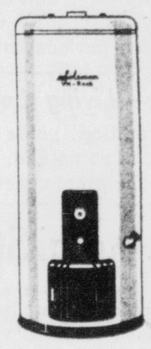

The Federal agency, which establishes the periods in which a season may be held in the various Flyways and the length of season, gave Ohio the right to choose a 55-day season within the period of Oct. 1 to Jan. 10.

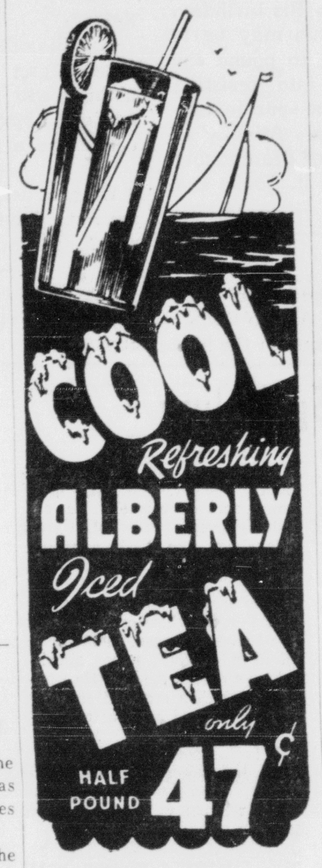

Ohio was turned down in its request for a split or zoned state.

As a result the Council chose the dates Oct. 19 to Dec. 12 in order to offer the most advantageous dates for both the northern Ohio and southern Ohio duck hunters. Had they chosen a split season, a loss of 10 percent of the season would have been the penalty and five days would have been lost completely from the 55 days.

Bag limit for ducks and geese as established by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is four with the possession limit after the first day eight.

Can History Be Made More Interesting?

History should be one of the most absorbing of all studies, but strangely enough, far too many students in our high schools and colleges find it duller than dull.

There have been theories aplenty advanced for this unfortunate situation—emphasis upon names, places and dates; failure to humanize the rich materials available; sheer mental fatigue induced by the volume of data.

If it is any comfort for Americans, word now comes out of England that the lads and lassies across the pond aren't much better at their history studies than our own boys and girls.

Tests administered to young people there, of upper high school through college age levels showed that twenty-five percent of the group did not know that Chamberlain was the famous umbrella prime minister of England at the time of the Munich conference which led to World War II. Some of them thought that the right answer was Churchill, who was not in the government at that time. Others named dead statesmen.

Even more disturbing, some of the English young people did not know that Good Friday is the anniversary of Christ's death or that Christmas is His birthday.

Small comfort though this may be to American teachers trying to pound the facts of our own history into resisting heads, it should serve as a spur to educators on both sides of the Atlantic to think up ways and means of dramatizing history. Maybe TV will do it. Books and detention periods can't.

Stagg—Living Legend

A tradition, noble in the history of sports, is at an end. Amos Alonzo Stagg, one of the most venerable men in the history of football, is retiring. No one can question that, for a coach, he has reached retirement age. He is 91.

Mr. Stagg's life spans the era of modern football. He played at Yale in the 1880's, an All-American end. He began coaching at the University of Chicago in 1892, remaining there until 1933 when, at 70, he was retired by the University.

For 13 years longer he was an active coach, serving at the College of the Pacific. In 1947, he moved to Susquehanna University, assistant to his son, head coach at that institution. Now, with Mrs. Stagg ill, the grand old man is retiring to be with his wife continuously, and to help to nurse her.

His unquestionable claim to sporting immortality is partly his coaching of football players but, far more, his making of men. He has been named "football's man of the year for service." He has been presented a bronze plaque "for service to the game of American football and for development of the American young man." He was awarded the "silver buffalo" by the Boy Scouts. A man doesn't receive all that, and numerous similar honors, merely for winning football games.

Mr. Stagg's retirement will leave a notable gap among the coaches; but nothing will remove him from memory nor end appreciation of him as a great coach and a greater man.

Hints For Safe Habits Around Water

By HERMAN N. BUNDENSEN

The gills of the fish are his breathing mechanism under water, and man could well use a similar organ, since his mode of life so often brings him in contact with the water.

During the past thirty years, death from drowning in the United States averaged about seven thousand each year. Among all accidents, drowning is the most paradoxical, since there are only two possibilities: either the person recovers completely or dies.

Percentage of Causes

Only fifty per cent of all drowning deaths involve persons playing in the water or swimming. The rest are due to persons accidentally falling or being pushed into the water, or children, without knowing fear for water, walking into it of their own accord.

Before the age of five, many children are taught not to fear the water and may blithely step into six feet of water. More wisely, children should be taught the benefits and perils of water at a very early age.

The young individual in his bath should be taught respect for it. He can learn that an untrained human body can sink in the water. He should learn that water in the mouth, eyes or air passages can cause discomfort.

Of course, the time that a child should learn to swim depends on his environment. If he lives near channels or water holes and is constantly exposed to their dangers, he should learn to swim at an early age. Too, he should learn after being taught to swim, that he will have a great deal of difficulty carrying out the swimming action if clothed.

Adequate swimming lessons should therefore include instructions to the child on how to remove his clothing while keeping afloat. Children also should be taught not to go into the water too soon after eating nor to go to unsupervised bathing spots.

If a little care is exercised by parents, there will be fewer children drowned this year. Common care must now take the place of nature's gills to protect child and man in the water.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. C. J.: I have been reading that certain antibiotics help the growth of animals. Do you think they might promote growth in infants and children?

Answer: Certain studies have shown some increase in growth in children with the use of the antibiotic drugs. However, because of the side effects from these drugs in humans, their use for such a purpose would not be advisable.

FBI Warnings On Reds Ignored

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — The most startling evidence yet of persistent Truman-Acheson indifference toward existence of a Communist espionage ring in sensitive government agencies—the White House, State, Treasury, War Production Board, UNRRA, etc.—has been produced by the Jenner Committee, a subsidiary body of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Its documented report proves conclusively that the former President and Secretary of State failed to heed an FBI warning which revealed the identity and operations of the conspirators, as F. D. R. scoffed at the Berle-Chambers memo on Alger Hiss as far back as 1938.

The Jenner revelations, even more impressively than other Congressional disclosures, furnish a detailed review of Russian penetration of military, diplomatic and economic secrets before, during and afte. World War II.

Most sensationally, they show that almost every anti-American plot, subsequently disclosed in the two Hiss trials and several congressional investigations, was known to Truman and Acheson as early as November of 1945. And yet, almost every individual listed as disloyal was promoted to an influential foreign policy post after they had been exposed.

* * *

TREACHERY — The sordid story of treachery was first unfolded when Elizabeth Bentley, under the influence of remorse and religion, voluntarily walked into the New York office of the FBI on Nov. 8, 1945, and described her success in obtaining vital, secret data from 27 "contacts" at Washington.

The FBI report on her testimony, which partially confirmed the Berle 1938 memo to F. D. R. on Hiss, was forwarded to Truman, Acheson and Pentagon officials on Nov. 25, 1945. The subsequent chronology is damning.

Hiss was not exposed by Vice-President Nixon and Chambers until the summer of 1948, and not convicted until January, 1950. In the interim he had been a top Acheson aide in the State Department. Previously, he had advised F. D. R. at Yalta, where Russia received concessions that made her supreme in Central Europe and the Far East.

With Edward R. Stettinius, then secretary of state, Hiss helped to organize the United Nations at San Francisco. He worked on the compromise provision of the U.N. Charter which gave Russia the veto power in the Security Council and extra representation in the General Assembly.

* * *

BENTLEY LIST — But Miss Bentley listed other alleged conspirators and Communists for inclusion in the FBI memo to the White House and State Department. Although less well known than Hiss, each helped to frame agreements and decisions on foreign policy which still plague us today. Here are only a few of the 27 key figures she mentioned:

Harry Dexter White, director of monetary research at the Treasury, wrote the notorious Morgenthau Plan for cutting Germany into farm lots, thus making it an easy matter for Russia to invade Western Germany. Under a Morgenthau directive, White handled all foreign problems affecting the Treasury, including money matters of vital importance in Europe and the Far East.

* * *

UNRAA — Another Treasury employe, Harold Glasser, was the American financial expert who helped to organize UNRRA. As the late F. H. LaGuardia discovered when he headed that agency, it was staffed with Communists and fellow-travelers who showed partiality to Red areas in the distribution of American food and supplies.

Glasser was an adviser to George C. Marshall, then Secretary of State, at the Moscow Conference in 1947, or two years after the FBI warning was submitted to the White House and State Department. It was at this conference that Marshal Tito, then a Soviet ally, was given an extremely favorable settlement in dividing Trieste between Yugoslavia and Italy.

This pro-Tito attitude, as well as subsequent favoritism, has been held largely responsible for the growth of communism in Italy, as well as for the recent fall of the pro-West DeGasperi cabinet.

* * *

HELPED REDS — Another Morgenthau protege, Frank Coe, also named by Miss Bentley, had a part in a division of territory which dumbfounded Eisenhower and Gen. Omar N. Bradley. Coe became an adviser to the late John G. Winant, U. S. representative on the London Advirosy Commission.

It was this body which originally provided for Russian occupation of German areas conquered by our troops, and for isolating Berlin inside the Red zone. In short, almost all individuals listed by Miss Bentley utilized their positions and influence to wound their country.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD."

Ike, Adlai Still Sparkling

By Relman Morin

(Substituting For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—It was like old times in New York last week.

First, the President came to town for a day, and then Adlai Stevenson touched down, returning from his trip around the world. Before you could say "national committee," a fair copy of the spasms and convulsions that shake this republic every four years was taking shape all over town.

The hotel corridors were neck-deep in politics. The newsreelmen, hoarse voiced and croaking, pleaded with people to get out of their foreground. Patient New York gendarmes were trying to keep order, usually with a wisecrack, sometimes with an arm. The usual cranks and hangers-on invaded the news conferences. And there was that pleasantly familiar sensation of trying to take notes on a carefully worded statement with a photographer's elbow in your eye.

Yes, sir, it was exactly like last year when Eisenhower and Stevenson were warming up for the decision that came in November.

Neither seems to have suffered much from the effects.

The President was bouncing around in his suite on the 32nd floor of the Waldorf with the easy, free-wheeling grace of a professional athlete. He was still wearing a pair of Army-issue officer's shoes, the buckle-over type they sell in the PX.

He looked a little thinner, much sharper, and very much more sure of himself. He sat, talking deeply with Col. Harold Riegelman, the GOP candidate for mayor of New York, apparently oblivious to the bedlam going on around him. The deep furrow that runs horizontally across the top of his nose, in moments of deep concern, never appeared once during the day. He whipped through a crowded schedule like a very old hand at crowded schedules.

In fact, it seemed to amuse him when Jim Hagerty, his press secretary, gave the newsreel men "just two seconds more" for their pictures.

"First Sergeant Hagerty," he said. "Hagerty'd make a great first sergeant."

Adlai Stevenson looked a little tired, as well a man might after six months abroad. He said he would be glad to unpack now.

But he had the same bubbling, spontaaneous wit and he got the laughs, just as he always did.

When somebody asked him to comment on the situation in Iran he said he understood that Mossadegh also had fled the country, pondered for a moment, and added:

"There might be a good opening there for a politician."

And when the radio men asked him to sit down, to be nearer the microphones on the desk, he said, "Certainly, a politician always likes to keep his seat."

He stuck a thin stiletto between the sixth and seventh ribs of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles when he answered one question. A reporter, recalling what Stevenson had written about the Middle East, asked if his views did not coincide with those expressed by Dulles.

"I don't know that I can answer that," Stevenson said. "I know what I think, but I'm not at all clear as to what Mr. Dulles thinks."

All of which suggests that the gentleman from Illinois may be more in the center of the Democratic picture than his cagey remarks sometimes indicate. He has said, you recall, that he doesn't know whether he will run for the presidency again in 1956.

Also, he declined to answer, directly, when he was asked whether he considers himself the leader of the Democratic Party.

But along with this, he said he intends to speak out on Sen. Joseph McCarthy and on foreign policy. And, in his own way, he will work for his party. If these are pieces of the jig-saw, they fit neatly.

It was nice to have the champion and the challenger in town again; just like old times.

Called Madly Unrealistic

By George Sokolsky

It is often said that peoples who speak the same language have an affinity for each other. The Germany of the Kaisers so thoroughly believed in this theory that wherever the Germans went, they promoted the use of the German language. The French have also sought to develop French as the second language and for many centuries succeeded. English made its own way with little pressure from any government.

The United States and Great Britain not only speak the same language but have the same basic laws and traditions. It should be a simple matter for these two peoples to convey ideas and purposes to each other without the impediment of linguistics. Nevertheless, the truth is that they do not even grasp each other's concepts and while we, in the United States, have cultivated assiduously a sentimentality toward Great Britain, often exceeding our own self-love, the British continue to believe that we are mad children, rich in material things but altogether unworthy of being taken seriously. Too young, you know!

The London "Daily Herald" of July 21, under the heading, "No, No, Mr. Knowland," has the following to say:

"Thank you, Senator Knowland, for telling a Herald reporter so frankly your views on the international situation.

"They frighten us.

"Your opposition to admitting China to the United Nations soon after a Korean peace is madly unrealistic."

The phrase, "madly unrealistic," must be a reminder to us that we are in many respects an idealistic people. We really turn the other cheek in our international relations, otherwise there could have been no Marshall Plan, no rebuilding of the countries of our enemies, no participation in two major foreign wars into which the American people (as distinct from their government) entered to save Great Britain. There could have been no outpouring of billions of dollars of national wealth to Europe and Asia as a gift from the American taxpayer. If the American people were not "madly unrealistic," the United Nations would have been situated in Paris or London or Geneva, and the bulk of its expense would not have been borne by the American taxpayer; nor would we have gone into the Korean war, nor would we have averted victory to please our allies.

This America is an idealistic nation and the people have avoided and even evaded realism because they actually believe that goodness will prevail. Their roots are in the prophets of the Old Testament. Maybe that is a wrong view, but the Americans are unchangeable in their rejection of Satan. This is paradoxical in a people who seem so practical; yet it is a correct description of us, for otherwise when taxes are so high, we should not have tithed outselves to the bursting point in maintaining our enormous charitable, religious and cultural institutions without government aid.

Maybe the realistic British, the logical French, the thrifty Japanese and the hard-headed Germans cannot understand us, but a glance at the 250 odd religious sects in our country is a living proof of the endless search among our peopple for the laws of God. In this idealism, America manages somehow to be practical and even to prosper.

No greater service can one do to an understanding of America by Great Britain, the country of our language, than to try to explain this country not in terms of automobiles and refrigerators but in terms of the essential idealism of its people. If the British and the French and all the other nations could know and believe that the United States is actually "madly unrealistic," as the "Daily Herald" says, and that the American people instinctively put right above expediency, that even when our politicians try to be expedient, they fail because it is unnatural with them, they would better understand our country to their greater advantage.

And yet on the subject of Communist China, the American people are not "madly unrealistic." They recognize the immorality of aggression and they do not condone it. They have been called upon to contribute not only wealth but to expend their sons because of a senseless aggression. They fear that a puffed-up, flattered Communist China will "volunteer" in Indo-China, in Burma, in Malaya. They do not wish to be called upon again to bail out their allies with American treasure and American lives. They are very realistic about that.

Quartet Held; Phoney Bills Found

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three men and a woman were in jail today charged with possessing counterfeit $10 bills described by a federal officer as such poor imitations they looked like play money.

The four were arrested in Strongville where one of them tried to pay for sandwiches and gasoline with a phony bill. They were held for police who found $1,800 in the 1950 Cadillac in which they were riding.

Jailed in default of $10,000 bonds were three Cleveland men, John Carter, 25; Frank Smith, 31, and Jimmie Epps, 31. Bond of $1,000 was fixed for Carter's wife, Myrtle, 24, whom he said he was driving back to Dayton where she lives with their five children and her mother.

NEW YORK IS TOO BIGGER THAN LONDON

Writer Defies Quizmaster—Quotes Map-Making Authority

By MEL HEIMER
Central Press Staff Writer

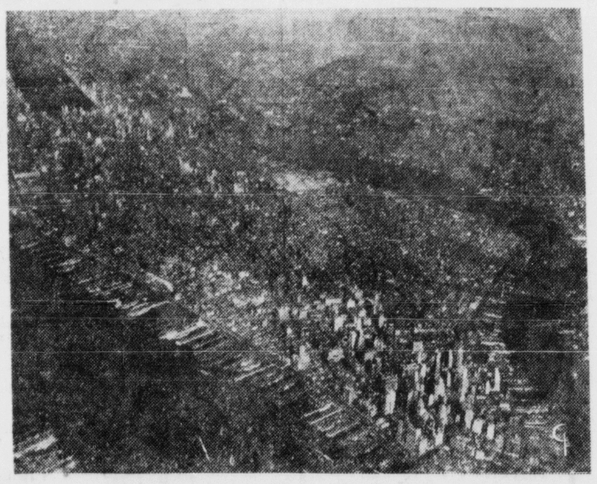

NEW YORK Recently, a contestant on a radio quiz show fought his way doggedly to the jackpot question and then lost $2,000 because he said New York was larger than London, and thus the biggest city in the world. The quiz show's researchers said no.

It is respectively suggested here that the quiz people should back track apologetically and give the two grand to the poor guy. New York is larger than London, virtually any way you figure it. Rand McNally & company, which would seem to be about as authoritative a source as you could go to, says so.

Rand McNally is, of course, the world-famous map-making firm. From its ivory tower in Chicago today came word that New York has been the world's largest city for the last 30 years. Rand McN. backs up its statement this way:

The city of New York is made up of five boroughs (Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx, Queens and Richmond), which have a total land area of 315 square miles and a population of 8,053,000.

If you're going to be sharply technical, the "city of London" refers only to an area of one square mile in the business section—the only territory ruled by the Lord Mayor. Full of business buildings, this area had only 5,200 residents in the 1952 census.

Manhattan island—within a radius of 15 miles 10,056,000 people.

However, "London" generally is considered to be the County of London, formed in 1888 and including 28 "metropolitan boroughs," plus the aforementioned one-mile area. The total area of the County of London, Rand McNally says, is 117 square miles, and its population is 3,363,000.

"Some reference books complicate matters," a Rand McN. spokesman says, "by quoting a much larger figure for London and identifying it as 'greater London.'

"This 'greater London,' which includes all the area within 15 miles of the center of the city, actually is only a police district. It has no other political or governmental unity at all. It covers 722 square miles and had, in 1952, a population of 8,364,000."

If you were to compare "greater London" and "greater New York" logically, the map company's authority says, you would have to take in the vast metropolitan area of New York—which includes Yonkers, White Plains, much of Long Island, Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth, Passaic and Paterson, N. J., among others.

The federal census bureau has designated such an area; it has called it "New York's Standard Metropolitan Area" and lists it as having 4,408 square miles and a population of 12,911,994.

"Or, if you want to make a comparison even more strict," the spokesman points out, "draw a circle with a 15-mile radius around New York City similar to the 15-mile London area. Within this circle around New York, which has Broadway and 42nd street as its center, there were 10,056,000 residents in 1950. The population figure would be even larger now."

The Rand McNally people say that these figures should answer the question for good and all and "New York City obviously is larger than London."

"It is hoped that this bit of population information will not stir up a major transatlantic controversy," says the spokesman, with only the trace of a smile. "Rand McNally just wants to state the facts of the New York City vs. London debate."

The facts have been stated. Give the poor guy his 2,000 bucks, will ya?

One-Time Messenger Boy Dances to Stardom

Harold Lang—a telegram opened theater world for him.

By LUCIA PERRIGO
Central Press Correspondent

CHICAGO—One of America's greatest dancers was delivered to the doorstep of fame, by Western Union!

This unique occurrence took place in San Francisco when a soda-jerk and part-time Western Union messenger delivered a telegram to the San Francisco Opera Ballet company.

A ballet class was in progress and the lanky kid, who up to that date had doted on high school track, tennis, and basketball, stuck around to watch.

His eyes widened, his interest worked overtime, and he vowed: "This is wonderful, but I bet I could do it if I tried."

With that, Harold Lang eased into ballet, later electrified American audiences as a headliner with the Monte Carlo ballet and ballet theater, leaped to Broadway musical and today is helping make Chicago's summer hotter with his dancing dramatics as that hero-heel, Pal Joey.

For 800 performances, first in New York and now here, he's invested the brilliant revival of the Rodgers and Hart musical with romance and a rocket-like pace as he charms and disarms Carol Bruce, makes sparks on the stage with his flying feet, sings as though he'd crooned from the cradle.

* * *

IF YOU THINK the grand jete from ballet to Broadway was easy, try again. As he puts it:

"I wanted to learn something about acting, to broaden my field instead of relying wholly on ballet. So I worked with a stock company in Stamford, Conn., playing juvenile leads in Over 21 and Boy Meets Girl to get a start.

"Dancing is automatic. It's like a language you teach your body—and once your body knows how to speak it, you don't have to think about it.

"However, when you play a role, you have to please an audience and you have to use your mind; you have to think it right each time, or it won't come out right."

Son of a French father and a Spanish mother matriarch descended from one of the first families to settle California, this young whirling dervish is as All-American as the Fourth of July.

Always agile, his love for tennis and tournament play was an adolescent high spot. But the day after he watched the ballet class, he enrolled in the ballet school, a 17-year-old, who four months later became a member of the ballet company. He minimizes this feat saying:

"They needed more fellows in the company to help with props and equipment. I did some group dancing in the productions and of course attended classes in technique each day. Rhythm, timing and agility were like close friends. I'd made them in athletics."

* * *

SOON he was sent out as a soloist and was a balletic bombshell in a world that hitherto had thought a dance only could be great if his name ended in "ski."

His Broadway ventures were with Ray Bolger in Three to Make Ready, Look Ma, I'm Dancing, Kiss Me Kate and Make a Wish. When he isn't vaulting above the footlights he likes to try his hand at painting, a far cry from his former diversions, but he admits ruefully:

"When I was in ballet, I spent every Sunday horseback riding or playing tennis. Now I rest to conserve my energies. An actor has to have some semblance of serenity, while a dancer on the other hand, must be as keyed up as a race horse. Sometimes I don't know which side of me to pamper.

On stage a swaggering, insolent character, off stage, Lang is self-effacing, quick-witted, disarmingly candid. He will be the first to admit:

"My mother is my staunchest fan. She came to New York while Pal Joey was on Broadway. I arranged for her to see all the hit shows, but every morning she'd confess to me, 'I took the tickets back, and went to see Pal Joey again!"

Sollars Ends Work On County GOP Committee

Acceptance of Place On State PMA Board Necessitates Action

A veteran of over two score years of active participation in Fayette County and state Republican politics, has severed his active connections, at least officially.

Walter E. Sollars, for over 25 years a member of the Fayette County Republican Central Committee, and its chairman most of that time, in addition to many previous years of party political work, has resigned as both chairman and committeeman.

The reason for Sollars' action is his acceptance of a place on the Ohio state board of the Production and Marketing Administration, an appointment made by U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

* * *

THIS STATE BOARD is made up of three members, the other two being the chairman, Clay Stackhouse of Huron County and Frank Farnsworth of Lucas County, former secretary of the Ohio Department of Agriculture. Dave Herman of Franklin County, has been named as state manager for the board and is the only full time employee on regular salary. The board members are on a per diem pay basis.

The PMA board acts in a supervisory capacity for all the county PMA committees. The long experience in practical agricultural work which Sollars possesses is said to have made him an ideal choice for the important post he has accepted, which was effective August 10.

One of the requirements for being on this state board, however, is that there must be no official membership connections with active political organizations. This made it necessary for Sollars to resign from the county Republican committee.

The county committee at the same session in which it accepted Sollars' resignation, expressed much regret that he was compelled to leave the committee work. It named in his place as the committeeman from Concord Township, Jean Nisley.

For the chairmanship which Sollars vacated, Jess Maddux, the vice chairman, was elevated to this task.

McCarthy Tangles Again With Critical News Editor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joe McCarthy (R-Wis) has brought the issue of newspaper postage rates into his quarrel with the Washington Post and the Post has retorted that the senator has not shown "he is qualified to become chief censor of what news may be sent in the mail."

In a letter to seven newspaper editors, McCarthy last night repeated a charge that J. Russell Wiggins, managing editor of the newspaper, was responsible for "publishing a deliberate falsehood" about him.

He referred to an editorial in the Washington Post concerning James A. Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, who was under questioning at a closed session of the Senate investigations subcommittee McCarthy heads.

McCarthy said in his letter to the editors:

"This subject becomes of more than academic interest when it is remembered that the Postal Department requested 240 million dollars for the current year to make up the difference between what was paid by newspapers, magazines, etc., for postage and the actual cost of handling such publications by the Post Office.

"I am sure you will agree that the congress and the taxpayers would be strongly opposed to having this money used to disseminate falsehoods."

Philip L. Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, said:

"We do not agree with Sen. McCarthy that newspapers should be compliant to a senator's demands just because the Congress has voted mail rates that may provide a subsidy to newspapers. We have consistently stated in our editorials that newspapers should be charged the full cost of mail service. Sen. McCarthy has given no evidence that he is qualified to become chief censor of what news may be sent in the mail."

Graham said that "if Sen. McCarthy would close his mouth long enough to read a little American history," he might learn that freedom of the press "does not give newspapers any special rights."

"It does give their readers protection from the totalitarian methods of doctoring and falsifying news which Sen. McCarthy wishes to adopt," the statement continued.

Police Stumped By Brutal Slaying

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Investigators today continued to probe into the brutal slaying of Mrs. Walter E. Clark, principal owner of the Charleston Daily Mail, who was beaten to death in her fashionable home Friday night.

Except for a fragment of varnished oak wood found in a pool of blood beside the body, police admitted they were "up against a blank wall."

Police Chief Dewey Williams said the wood may have splintered off a weapon used to beat the socially prominent 59-year-old widow to death. Detectives said no motive had been established for the killing.

Japan Opened To World Just 100 Years Ago

People Celebrate Anniversary of Visit by Perry

By DAVID A. HELLER

TOKYO — It's Kaikoku Kyakunen Kinensai time in Japan, or to put it in plain English, the Centennial Celebration of the Opening of Japan.

For the Japanese people, it's a kind of super Fourth of July celebration, with all Americans in Japan joining in the fete. The official purpose of the big shindig is "to enhance the future friendship of the American and Japanese peoples through celebrating the historical development of the relations between the two countries."

It was exactly 100 years ago that Commodore Mathew Perry, the naval hero younger brother of one of the brightest lights of American Navy, Oliver Hazard Perry, led an American fleet into Japan and by a combination of diplomacy, persuasion and force, opened that nation to trade with the western world.

* * *

IT WAS ONE of the greatest coups of the United States Navy.

Prior to July 14, 1853, Japan was a hermit nation, refusing to trade with the western world or allow foreigners into the country. It had erected a kind of Nineteenth Century "Iron Curtain."

Americans were eager to engage in the lucrative Japanese spice and silk trade. Moreover, shipwrecked American seamen cast adrift on Japan had either been killed or badly mistreated. Previous attempts by Americans and Europeans to open Japan to the west had met with flat refusal.

Then President Millard Fillmore hit upon the idea of sending Commodore Perry to negotiate with the Emperor of Japan. He couldn't have picked a better man for the job.

* * *

THE DOUGHTY commodore had met many adversaries in his long career; the British vessel "Little Belt" in the War of 1812, pirates, African slave traders, the Mexican fleet in the War of 1845—and had licked them all. He was also a polished diplomat.

On July 8, 1853, he led a squadron to Japan's Tokyo bay and demanded an audience with the emperor. On July 14, his steam frigates "Susquehanna" and "Mississippi" landed 400 seamen and marines and Commodore Perry presented a letter from President Fillmore to Prices Idzu and Iwami.

Three days later, he sailed away, telling the princes that he would return for an answer, and seven months later, he did. On his return visit, Commodore Perry brought a much more powerful squadron with him and the Japanese emperor could hardly have refused had he wanted to.

At any rate, the emperor received him with much pomp and ceremony and lavish gifts were exchanged.

* * *

ON MARCH 31, 1834, a treaty was drawn up at Yokohama which granted the American requests and the ports of Shimoda and Hakodate were open to American trade.

Congress was so elated over Perry's success that it passed a special law granting him $20,000. It was a tribute to his personality that, after such high-handed methods, he became enormously popular in Japan.

From that day to this, in peace and in war, the destinies of America and Japan have become closely entwined. With much of Asia in the hostile hands of Communists, the friendly celebrations going on in dozens of Japanese cities have an especially welcome ring.

In Washington, D. C., the Truxtum-Decatur Naval Historical museum is holding a special exhibition of relics relating to Commodore Perry's visit, including many of the gifts presented to him by the Japanese emperor.

Romanian Reds Plan To Do Better

VIENNA (AP)—Romania's Communist government, observing the ninth anniversary of the satellite country's "liberation" by the Red army, has pledged to take "practical measures to improve shortcomings which have arisen."

Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu Dej did not elaborate on the shortcomings when he spoke over a nationwide radio network yesterday. He said, however, the government would build new homes, increase pensions and reduce prices.

The Premier's speech appeared to confirm recent reports that the Romanian Reds, like their counterparts in other Soviet satellites, are being forced by public discontent to concentrate more on production of consumer goods and an improvement in living standards.

Herman, in the hospital for treatment of a stomach ulcer and anxiety neuroses, climbed out on the ledge at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Anti-Polio Fight Making Progress

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis says 1952 was the worst epidemic year for the United States but also was the year of greatest promise in the fight against the disease.

The March of Dimes organization, in its annual report released yesterday, said it spent almost 25 million dollars last year for treatment of some 80,000 persons. Many were old cases; others were from among the 57,628 new cases reported in 1952.

Another $6,736,000 went for research and professional education, the foundation said, and almost three million for administrative and other expenditures.

Sunday Afternoon Wedding Unites Couple In Marriage

Mrs. Roger E. Rapp

The Bloomingburg Methodist Church was the setting on Sunday, August 23, for the wedding of Miss Eleanor Jo Elliott to Mr. Roger E. Rapp.

Miss Elliott is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Elliott of Bloomingburg, and Mr. Rapp's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Omar Rapp of the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Lester B. Taylor as the hands of the clock approached the hour of three in the afternoon, before a white wrought iron arch entwined with greenery, flanked with two seven-branch candelabra with white tapers and two cathedral vases filled with white gladioli and asters. The family pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

The ceremony was preceded with a program of nuptial music presented by Mrs. Kenneth Kelly, aunt of the bride as soloist, and David Foster, pianist. Mrs. Kelly's songs included "I Love You Truly"-Bond, "At Dawning"-Cadman and "Because"-D'Hardelot.

Piano numbers were "Starlight"-MacDowell; "Traumerei"-Schuman; "Berceuse"-Godard; "Poeme Opus 41"-Fibick; "Clair de Lune"-Debussy; "Sweetest Story Ever Told"-Stultz and the wedding marches.

The bride was attended by Miss Jo Ann Crouse as maid of honor and Mrs. David Six as bride's matron. Mr. Wilbur Rapp, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and seating the guests were Mr. Gene Elliott, brother of the bride, Mr. Malcolm Bloomer and Mr. Richard Hopkins.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in her exquisite floor-length gown of white nylon tulle and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a portrait neckline formed by scallops of lace below a sheer nylon yoke and a fitted basque bodice. Long tulle sleeves tapered into points over the hands and the extremely full skirt of tiers of nylon tulle and lace cascaded over an old fashioned hoop. Her fingertip veil of imported silk English illusion was held in place by a pillbox of lace matching her gown, encrusted with seed pearls, and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

She carried a white orchid on a white prayer book, with a shower of shattered white carnations and satin streamers.

The attendants wore identical floor-length gowns of ombre net over taffeta, with Miss Crouse in shades of poudre blue, copen and royal, and the bride's matron in shades of rose, pink and samba, fashioned with a softly tucked bustline, with a fitted midriff and a loose flowing stole attached at one shoulder, forming a soft shoulder drape.

The extremely full skirts of layer upon layer of nylon net shaded in ombre tones, were caught up in a huge pouf at one side. Matching nylon tulle leaf clips in their hair were attached to small theater nose veils and their long crushed gloves harmonizing with the shades in their gowns were gifts of the bride.

Miss Crouse carried a small cascade bouquet of shell pink asters and Mrs. Six also carried the same type of bouquet of deep pink asters.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held on the lawn at the home of the bride's parents, and Mrs. Elliott received the guests in a navy and white pinstripe nylon afternoon dress, accented with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations, while the bridegroom's mother chose a slate blue crepe afternoon dress with navy accessories, and her corsage was pink carnations.

The bride's table in the center of natural scenery had as an additional background an arch of huckleberry foliage, dotted with pink roses and was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional bride and groom, and white roses dotted the pink cloth.

Hostesses for the reception were Miss Zana Cowdrey, Miss Ruth Engle, Miss Mary Howsmon and Mrs. Charles Gibeaut.

Later when the new Mr. and Mrs. Rapp left on their honeymoon to New York, Canada and Niagara Falls, the bride wore for travelling a rose faille suit with navy accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Sunday's bride is a graduate of Bloomingburg High School in the class of 1949 and until recently has been associated with the First National Bank in this city.

Mr. Rapp, also a graduate of Bloomingburg High School in the class of 1946, is engaged in farming with his father, and upon their return they will be at home to their friends at their newly furnished home at 529 East Market Street in Washington C. H.

Freedom Ship Brings 328 Ex-POWs Home

Shouts, Tears Mingle As Repatriated GIs Return To States

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—More than 300 American fighting men today scattered over the United States, en route home from grim Red prison camps and the emotion-packed arrival of the first shipload of repatriated POWs from Korea.

The Navy transport Gen. Nelson M. Walker, first vessel on the freedom run from Korea, glided through the Golden Gate yesterday with 328 former captives as Army and Marine bands broke into "Calif a, Here I Come."

As the ship nosed into her pier a roar rose from 2,400 Marine, Army and Air Force men also aboard.

Fireboats spouted streams of water and a huge sign emblazoned: "Welcome Home." On the pier a third band joined the chorus and a pretty soprano sang "My Hero."

But on the promenade deck of the Walker, and on the dock below, among the families of more than 60 of the freed captives, it was much quieter.

There were scattered shouts as men who once wondered if they would ever see their loved ones again spotted a wife or child.

* * *

BUT MORE often there were tightly clenched jaws and tears in the eyes which had stared too long at barbed wire and bleak North Korean stockades.

The green hills across San Francisco Bay to the north, the gleaming tall buildings was a sight that seemed to bring lumps to many throats.

On the pier below, many a wife sighted her husband and many a mother her son and started a happy shout — only to find it came out a sob.

Some children, bewildered because they didn't quite understand it all, huddled in their mother's arms, their backs to the fathers they had never seen or could barely remember.

Emotions climbed to a peak in the everlasting minutes required to tie up the ship. They broke, finally, when the gangway was raised and the first of a stream of former prisoners ran down to the dock.

First ashore was Pfc. Roosevelt A. Lunn of Baltimore. Lt. Gen. Joseph M. Swing grabbed him by the hand and shook it. San Francisco Mayor Elmer Robinson did the same as Lunn's mother and nine brothers and sisters back in Baltimore watched the scene via television.

* * *

ON LUNN'S heels came a steady stream of men pouring down into the huge pier shed. Families hung over white fence barriers and many of the former captives broke into a run for a reserved area where the relatives waited.

It was bathed white with the glare of television and movie lights. Flash bulbs popped and broadcasters dashed to and from dragging tangles of cable.

But neither the repatriates nor their families minded.

A mother stepped back and looked at her boy. "He's too thin, he's too thin," she said. But he scoffed and said he never felt better. He never did.

The men whose families couldn't make it hustled by, anxious for reunions of their own.

By nightfall all but a handful had been assigned travel accommodations by routes and means of their own choosing to Army personnel centers nearest their homes. At the centers, all they need do is check in, present their orders and begin 30-day leaves.

ELLIOTT OGMAN, who says he is 111 years old, and his 22-year-old bride, the former Clyda Mae Godard of Williamston, N. C., are shown honeymooning in New Bern, N. C. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound Ogman, who has been married before, said when he applied for his marriage license that the marriage would be a surprise to his "baby boy." He referred to a son 79 years old. (International)

Ike Adviser Says U. S. Trade Policy Reversal Is 'Must'

DENVER (AP)—One of President Eisenhower's adviser declares free world unity "will remain precarious and fragile" unless the United States liberalizes its foreign trade policies.

Lewis Douglas, former ambassador to Great Britain, says that for 30 years this country has erected import barriers which have operated against "re-establishment of international economic and financial health and equilibrium."

America long ago became the world's greatest creditor and can "no longer pursue the protectionist policies of a debtor nation and hope to escape discrimination against American products in the international markets," he adds.

"Time is of the essence" in moving toward freer trade, Douglas says in a review of currency and trade relations between the United States and Britain. He urges the administration to make a prompt announcement it is determined to work toward "a progressive and consistent relaxation of our restrictive foreign trade legislation."

* * *

IN HIS REPORT, Douglas dealt with the progress Britain has made toward resolving "many of the causes of the unbalance between the dollar and sterling."

And he defined the issues "which we, on our side, must face if we are to enjoy the fruits of an enlarged volume of trade, more stable currencies, and an expanded area of economic freedom."

It was on that score that Douglas said the United States for 30 years has been erecting barriers operating against re-establishment of international economic health. He also said:

"It is doubtful whether the world can recover a high degree of economic freedom or whether American exports, so important to large segments of our country, can enter foreign markets without benefit of continued American subventions and subsidies, unless sterling makes further progress toward its own emancipation."

Morocco Istiqlal Routed by French

RABAT, Morocco, Aug. 24 (AP)—Morocco's outlawed Istiqlal Nationalist movement was on the run today, following French arrest of more than 1,000 Arabs suspected of anti-French activity.

The widespread roundup yesterday by French forces sent Istiqlal members underground or fleeing abroad. Jails were jammed.

Strong French police and army units held the troubled North African protectorate in a tight grip following the exiling last week of pro-nationalist Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef and his replacement by his pro-French uncle, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa.

Detroit and Cincinnati Teams Lead Tournament

ALFRED BROWNE has become part of the softball program at Wilson Field. For more than 12 years he has been selling tickets to get into the games. He has worked at all of the tournaments held here and also for all of the regular night softball games. "Brownie" is shown in the above photo selling a ticket to W. L. Sturgeon of Xenia for admission into the girls softball tournament now under way. (Record-Herald photo)

It will be Detroit and Cincinnati battling each other Monday (tonight) for the championship of the Women's East Regional Four-State Softball Tournament. Finals will be played at Wilson Field and will start at 7:30 instead of eight o'clock as previously announced.

Cincinnati goes into the finish with a slight edge over the Detroiters. The tourney is double elimination and Cincinnati has not yet been defeated in tourney play Detroit was defeated by Metamora, 3 to 2.

If Detoirt should win the first game tonight, another game will have to be played to decide the champion. The second game, if necessary, will be played immediately following the first.

Metamora, one of the favorites to take the tourney, was eliminated Sunday evening by losing to Cincinnati, 4 to 0, and by Detroit, 6 to 4. Metamora was the winner of the regional tourney last year.

Play over the weekend in the tourney eliminated five teams. They were Washington C. H., Cleveland, Columbus, Parkersburg, W. Va. and Metamora.

Warner's team from Washington C. H., was knocked out of the tourney by losing both of its games to Cleveland.

Following is a short summary of each of the games played over the weekend.

In the first game Saturday afternoon, Detroit knocked Parkersburg, W. Va., out of the tourney, 5 to 2. Detroit banged out 12 hits in its victory. Ross led the Detroit hit attack with three for three.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Parkersburg	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	2	2
Detroit	1	2	0	0	2	0	x	5	12	1

Two runs in the sixth inning aided Cincinnati to defeat Columbus, 3 to 2, in the second contest Saturday afternoon. Bergfeld accounted for one of the Cincinnati runs by banging out a homer in the first frame.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Columbus	0	0	0	1	1	0	0	2	4	0
Cincinnati	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	x	3	4	2

Cleveland was handed its first defeat in the tourney during the first game Saturday night by Metamora, 4 to 3. Naples lashed a four bagger for Cleveland in the fifth inning and Langenderfer polled one out for Metamora in the third frame.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Cleveland	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	3	5	3
Metamora	1	2	1	0	0	0	x	4	7	1

Warner's team from Washington C. H., was eliminated from the tourney in the second game Saturday evening by Cleveland, 15 to 3. Warner's also lost its first game in the tourney to Cleveland. The home team tallied all three of its runs in the fourth inning on four straight hits. Jeddy Graves paced the Warner hitters with three out of four times at the plate. Fuerst knocked out a round-tripper for Cleveland.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Cleveland	3	2	2	1	0	4	3	15	14	0
Wash. C. H.	0	0	0	3	0	0	0	3	13	4

A four-run rally by Detroit in the fourth inning of the third game Saturday night eliminated Columbus from the tourney, 8 to 5. Kaiser and Siterlet paced the winners in the fourth frame by collecting a three-base hit apiece. Columbus scored all of its runs in the fifth inning. Southard hit a homer for Columbus with two runners on base.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Detroit	1	1	1	4	0	1	0	8	13	1
Columbus	0	0	0	0	5	0	0	5	8	2

Cleveland was tossed from the tourney in the first game Sunday afternoon at the hands of Detroit, 5 to 1. Cleveland outhit the winners, 6 to 5, but couldn't bunch the hits together. One of the oddities of the game was that all of the Cleveland hits were doubles.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Detroit	0	0	0	2	0	1	2	5	5	4
Cleveland	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	6	3

Metamora was handed a shutout by Cincinnati, 4 to 0, in the first game Sunday evening. This was the first tourney loss for last year's regional champions. Metamora was limited to only three hits by the winning pitcher, VonBargen. Cincinnati scored two runs in the first and two in the second.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Cincinnati	2	2	0	0	0	0	x	4	5	2

The second game Sunday night saw Metamora eliminated from the tourney by Detroit, 6 to 4. Snider and Redfox both banged out round-trippers for Metamora. Detroit collected all six of its runs in the sixth inning. Skelt paced the big frame with a four-bagger with two players on base.

TEAM	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R	H	E
Metamora	1	0	0	1	0	2	0	4	6	0
Detroit	0	0	0	0	0	0	x	6	10	1

Leading Grid Pros Looking Even Stronger

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that the National Football League teams are getting down to the serious business of preparing for the official opening just a month away, it looks like the rich are getting richer and the poor poorer.

Last year, the mighty Cleveland Browns, who have been in the playoffs the last three seasons, were worried about the New York Giants and with good cause. The Giants threatened their position until the waning weeks of the season.

Today, Brownie Coach Paul Brown must be breathing easier. The Giants, swing T and all, were clubbed by the Green Bay Packers 31-7 in an exhibition game Saturday night, while the Browns polished off the San Francisco 49ers 20-7 yesterday. Four other clubs played exhibitions Saturday night, the World Champion Detroit Lions whipping the Pittsburgh Steelers 16-13 and the Philadelphia Eagles trouncing the Chicago Bears 24-10.

Brown was pleased with the showing of his club against the 49ers.

Buck Shaw of the 49ers was inclined to shrug off the defeat.

Stout Steve Owen of the Giants was not discouraged by the loss to Green Bay.

"Our backs lost some scoring chances because they didn't have midseason form," he observed. "We moved with the swing T in the second half and will use it more."

Gene Ronzani of the Packers was impressed with his team's long punt runbacks and passing marksmanship. The Packers completed 16 of 23 tosses.

Toledo's AA Lead Growing Longer

By The Associated Press

The Toledo Sox ballooned their American Association lead to a comfortable 3½ games yesterday with a doubleheader victory over St. Paul 2-0 and 7-2 as Gene Conley and Virgil Jester contributed excellent pitching.

Other first-division teams did not fare so well. Second place Louisville dropped a 4-3 decision to Charleston, third-place Indianapolis lost to Minneapolis 12-5 and Kansas City, in fourth place, got beat by Columbus 7-3.

Conley won his 21st game by pitching a one-hitter. He faced only 29 men, struck out five and gave only one walk.

Aching Redlegs Facing Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The ailing and aching Cincinnati Redlegs are here for a twinight doubleheader tomorrow with the cellar-dwelling Pirates.

The Redlegs used good pitching and hard hitting to down the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 yesterday in St. Louis. The win remedied a five-game losing illness.

Ken Raffensberger prescribed effective hurling and two RBIs, and Andy Seminick knocked in a two-run homer for his battery partner.

Cornwall Sets All Time Record On Country Club Golf Course

A new all-time record was set for 18 holes at the Country Club golf course Saturday afternoon.

Ronnie Cornwell, playing golf with Harold Miller, Norman Pope, Charles Buxton and Dick Korn, shot an amazing 64 to establish the new mark.

In making the 64, Cornwell broke the former club record of 66 which he also established. Tony Capuana also has shot a 66 on the 18 holes.

Cornwell had a 31 on the "red" course, which is 200 yards shorter than the "white" course. He had a 33 on the "white" course. Cornwell was eight under par on the 18 holes, par being a 72.

Bill Himmelspach had the course record of 31 on the "red" course until Cornwell tied him Saturday. Thirty-two is the record for the "white" course.

Second String Aussies Clip Yank Netters

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Australia's second-line pair of lefty Mervyn Rose and Rex Hartwig wore the men's nationa' doubles tennis crowns today while perplexed U. S. Davis Cup officials pondered the thorny task of finding an American squad capable of testing the Aussies.

As expected, the 23-year-olders from down under swept through veterans Gardnar Mulloy of Miami and Billy Talbert of New York yesterday to win the title at Longwood 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

American Davis Cup committeemen probably were resigned to that defeat after watching the Aussie second-stringers whip the top U. S. combine of Philadelphian Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in a semifinal.

But what has the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. bigwigs worried is the poor showing made by Trabert in that semifinal loss.

The ex-sailor from Cincinnati is the big question mark in U. S. hopes for a successful challenge in December against Australia in the Davis Cup tests.

Seixas, the 1953 Wimbledon titlist and 1952 national doubles winner with Rose, performed well despite a knee injury that greatly restricted his sidewise motion. But his partner was very slow getting up to the net. Trabert just didn't maneuver fast enough to cope with the sharp-hitting Aussies.

Gerry Coleman Raring To Go

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—"Fit as a fiddle and eager to get back to the Yankees," Marine Capt. Gerry Coleman is home after 63 Korean air combat missions.

The world champions' second base ace arrived at Travis Air Force Base yesterday and the Yankees' brass quickly scheduled a Gerry Coleman day in Yankee Stadium Sept. 12. They added they expect Gerry to rejoin the team this week.

Oklahoma Youth Captures Crown

COLUMBUS (AP)—Jerry Pittman, 16-year-old Tulsa, Okla., youth, received a $1,500 college scholarship for winning the National Caddie Golf Tournament here Saturday.

Frank Malara, 17, of White Plains, N. Y., who lost to Pittman, 3 and 2, in the finals, won a $1,000 scholarship.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

NEWS VIEWS

BY RAY BRANDENBURG

We see where the Navy plans to send some of its WAVES to sea. This is the biggest revolution in nautical affairs since sailors quit wearing pigtails. Of course, the last blow to masculine naval pride will come the day a lady skipper is tooted aboard ship. Navy lads call the skipper "the Old Man." The term usually carries a certain amount of affection . . . but it might not sound so good in the feminine form.

The present plan is for only 28 WAVE billets in the Atlantic fleet and 35 in the Pacific . . . so the old sailors don't have to get too worried . . . and the young recruits can wipe that collective smile off their faces. Anyway, WAVES aboard ships will be a boon to Hollywod movie makers. Stand by for a salty epic called "Anchors A-Woo."

We stopped the other night at a little place called Slave City. Just as I went into the little hotel to see about our rooms, I saw a fellow going out the door with a fishing pole. I hailed him and he said he would be glad to have me go along. In five minutes I was ready.

He had a good canoe and outboard. It was past five when we went out. The sun set at 9:15 and it didn't get dark until 10 P. M. At that time we were about 15 miles down the river. It was past 12 o'clock when we got back home, but we had eight dandy pickerel.

Saw a sign the other day: "Chicken in the Tough." I didn't try it. Paid 60c a gallon for gas this evening. Glad the Chev. doesn't use hardly any or I'd have to turn around. Have had an exceptional lot of rain in this country this summer. Their spring wheat and oats won't be ready to harvest until late August or early September.

After an extended heat wave in Atlanta, police claimed that wife beatings were up %700. Sounds like a great field for an air conditioning salesman. There's still hot weather ahead . . . and the Labor Day weekend. If you're planning a weekend trip or any other traveling, be sure to bring your car in first for a complete check-up. That way you'll avoid trouble on the road . . . and you'll drive safely. R. BRANDENBURG MOTOR SALES, INC., 524 Clinton Avenue. Phone 2575.

Order Issued By Judge Case To Clear Docket

123 Cases Included In First Order for Early Hearings

Common Pleas Court Judge John P. Case Monday issued an order to clear the docket of a large number of cases which have been pending, in some instances, for several years.

The order is headed: "In the matter of dismissal of pending cases for want of prosecution.

"Order setting time for hearing and giving notice to show cause why certain pending cases should not be dismissed for want or prosecution."

The court's statement and order follow:

"The court coming now to consider the large volume of matters pending on its docket, finds:

"That a major portion of said matters have been pending without any action within a reasonable time.

"That all cases in which no action has been taken for three or more consecutive terms of court should be dismissed at the next or any succeeding terms for want of prosecution, unless good cause is shown for retaining same in said docket.

"That the court should list such pending cases and forward same by mail to attorneys of record, together with notification of final date at which cause may be shown for retaining same on said docket; and

"That said list and notification should be given at least 30 days before the date so scheduled and assigned for calling and dismissing same for lack of prosecution.

"It is therefore ordered that each of the following cases, hereinafter described by docket number and individually named parties, be, and hereby the same is scheduled to be called and discussed for lack of prosecution on October 5, 1953, beginning at 10 A. M. o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, in the Common Pleas Court Room of the Fayette County Court House, unless good cause be shown, at or before such hearing, why same should be retained upon the docket of this court."

Judge Case then lists 123 cases which come within the order of the court.

There are nine pages of the cases listed, together with names, number, names of attorneys and other data.

Mimeographed copies of the entire list of cases have been mailed to all attorneys interested in the litigation included in the list.

Forty two of the 123 cases are suits for divorce.

From 1939 to 1952, industrial wages in Sweden rose 200 per cent.

The average Italian traveled less than 325 miles last year.

Few Arrests Made Over The Weekend Here

Attorney William Lovell is presiding over municipal court during a two week's vacation taken by Judge R. L. Brubaker. "Judge" Lovell was on the bench for the Monday session of the court. Although only five arrests were made here over the weekend, a number of carry-over cases were on the docket for disposition in the court Monday.

Those arrested and the offenses charged are:
